

Dear Mr. Harper:

Putting the postal service into private hands may be the stupidest idea that the conservatives have ever floated.

When will you neo-cons ever learn? You can't use the market place as a model to administer all services in a country. Some things are too important for the public good to be subject to profit and loss limitations.

Please keep the postal service as is. It is a fine, useful service for the people of Canada.

Thank you for your attention.

Stephen Richard Knowles